DEFOE, Harry Joseph, shipbuilding; b. Bay City, Mich., Sept. 2, 1875; s. Joseph and Lucy Ann (Covey) D.; grad. West Bay City (Mich.) High Sch.; m. Verna Herric Lusk, Aug. 15, 1900 (dec., 1913); m. Maude Ethel Curey July 15, 1916; children—Thomas Joseph, William Martin, Lucy Helen. Began as school teacher; engaged in shipbuilding since 1905; mng. partner Defoe Shipbuilding Co. (Defoe Boat & Motor Works) since 1905. Began boat building by construction of wooden boats to 80 ft. in length, shipped chiefly in knockdown form; during World War I established steel shipyard (now conducted as Defoe Shipbuilding Co.); in 1940, when tremendous expansion of U.S. govt. shipbuilding required conservation of both manpower and space, devised "bottom up and rollover" construction, by which method steel hulls of ships between 300 and 400 ft. long were built bottom up on building forms, then rolled over to upright position by means of two wheels, or hoops, which encircled the hull and rested on heavy steel tracks; this made possible vast savings in manhours, and almost all downhand welding, which proved to average twice as fast as overhead welding and gave better results; firm has built a large number of vessels for the U.S. Navy, and has been awarded Navy E.
